The ROUNDUP

H All, to the spring, the glorious spring.

There's wine of life in the air,

When breezes come from the mountain peaks With a keenness sweet and rare; The soft green grass is putting forth Its many tender shoots, For the God of all Creation Is touching the earthy roots.

There are cattle by the thousands on the mesquite covered hills, The calves are coming early and they gambol through the day, While the cow with tender eyes Her offspring in its care-free happy play.

The cloudless sky, the deep blue sky And the pure untainted air, The distance reaching far away In a land beyond compare; The tips of the brush show points of great Awakening from winter's sleep, And the ratiler lies in the noon-time sun In a day dream long and deep.

Yonder herd-king sounds his bugle, the notes ring sharp and clear-He is answered by his foe across the draw, And as he paws the dust He is filled with battle lust, For it's brute strength which he knows alone as law.

Look to the west, the glorious west, And then to the castern sky, Then to where the North star fades, To the south then turn the eve: And as your gaze sweeps far and while Thank God for what you see, For no mun's hand has marred the lami Which he has given thee.

Now appear the many horsemen as a "drive" is swinging in, Their trappings touched by sun rays turned to gold, Hardy range men in their pride, Proud the horses which they ride They take one's memory back to knights of old.

Happy the life, the broad open life, Lungs filled with air sweet and pure; The feel of a horse moving with you, A horse that is speedy and sure: A sweep to the right for a yearling, A dash to the left at a steer, And the songs of the riders ringing-The work turned to play with a cheer.

And now they come thundering from every compass point, The herd-kings meet and battle here and there, And as the round-up dust Turns the aweat marks into erust The bawling of the herd becomes a blare.

Hail to the roundup, the glerious roundup, Thousands of cattle which "mill" While circling the herd in a dust cloud to the riders who work with a will; And now each one as he gallops Launches into a croon to the herd Though it quiets the great heaving roundup, It's lacking in music and word.

If you have lived the life and breathed it, and put it by for years, And you finally see a roundup's cloud of dust, Your heart will give a thump And you'll ride there on the jump It's a call which, when you hear it, come you must.

And Food Fermentation

By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—sail and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise ever 50 per cent, of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm of cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of blaurated magnesis, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your atomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask pour druggist for the blaurated magnesis, as i have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. Good Advice for Thin Folks.

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on uncless "fiesh or cauma" or following some foolish physical culture stunt while the real cause of thinnens goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the vary elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fatiaden bloeg. This master stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of fleshbuilders. Eargol sims through its regenerative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to fiterally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are sarried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body.
